Income Taxes Are Rolling In Rapidly

It is predicted by Collector Goodcell that income tax returns for 1922 will number 225,000. They are rolling in to the office of the collector rapidly.

SOME AFTER THOUGHTS

The object of the scriptures is not to force itself upon unwilling men but to help those who are willing to be helped into eternal life.

The law of Christ is given us not because God is an arbitrary ruler but because He is a loving father. And transgression of law works ruin in his children.

A preaching, teaching or living which does not emphasize the things Jesus Christ emphasized is unbalanced and unsafe.

By our faith we come to God. By our obedience God comes to us. These are the conditions of our salvation.

The law of Christ is to the man who is in harmony with Him, the good and acceptable and perfect will of the father.

Christlikeness will not save a man from temptation but it will render him invincible in the face of it.

Faith is not something a man professes, but something a man has—that which makes him so fully accept as truth what God says that it sways his conduct and molds his character.

The Sermon on the Mount, if given full control of a man's life, lifts his whole being to a higher plane, purifying, refining and ennobling body, mind and spirit.

We should not only compare scripture with scripture, but we should diligently compare our interpretations of scripture with scripture.

Allegiance to Christ means obedience to Him. Loyalty to Christ means doing what He commands. Accepting Christ means conforming to His conditions of discipleship; confessing Christ means living His life before men; loving Christ finds its highest expression in loving our neighbor as ourselves.

In a matter of such infinite importance as salvation in which eternal life is involved, I dare not trust any one's word or advice or opinion save Him who is the author of salvation, and He says,—
 "If thou wilt enter into life keep the commandments." Men have tried in a score of ways to belittle and deny and explain away this word, but Christ says: "The word that I have spoken, the same shall judge him at the last day."

Get Auto Numbers By Mail Till Feb. 1

No application for renewal of automobile licenses for 1923 will be received at the Sacramento counter, or at any other counters of the branch offices of the motor vehicle department, which are located at Oakland, San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego and Fresno, prior to February 1. Mail applications are being received at the Sacramento office at the present time.

In preparation for the renewal of your automobile license for 1923, it would be wise for the motorist to look at his certificate, see that his address is correct, verify his engine number, and see that the certificate correctly describes his car in every detail. If it does not do so, he should either by mail with the Sacramento office, or in person at one of the branches, have necessary corrections made. If the certificate has been lost, or is illegible, he should make application for duplicate, which will be furnished him upon payment of fee of 50c.

If he has a second hand car upon which the transfer from the former owner to himself has not been recorded, he should have this done before presenting certificate for 1923 renewal. If certificate shows a legal owner other than the registered owner and he has satisfied the indebtedness on his car during the year, he should have his certificate properly endorsed on the reverse side, by the former legal owner. It is not sufficient that he scratch the name from the space provided for legal owner. This action will only result in delay in his registration.

Non-resident owners whose licenses have expired during the month of January will be given a continuation of three months in 1923 provided they desire to further tour the state. On the expiration of the three months' period, registration under the California license provision will be required.

Operators' licenses are good until revoked. If the operator has lost his card he should make application for a duplicate and same will be furnished to him upon payment of fee of 25 cents.

Our idea of poor advice is that given by the man who tells you what to do with your money after you've done something else with it.

Western Storage Egg Situation Is Greatly Improved

Following is an extract from an article appearing recently in the Co-operative Poultryman, considered one of the most practical journals for poultrymen published. The article, on the condition of the market for storage eggs, is written for the trade journal by M. A. Schofield, a recognized authority on the production of eggs and their marketing:

Western Storage Egg Situation Improved

Some years ago there was considerable prejudice on the part of the growers themselves against the storage egg. They seemed to forget that only a few months before, these eggs were coming in as fresh eggs from the ranches. Had the greater portion not gone into storage, there would surely be a collapse in the selling price, only to be followed by a famine some months later. The grower should be vitally interested in seeing that the buyer of his eggs for storage purposes does not lose money on them. Otherwise this buyer will not be in the market the following spring when the period of heavy production arrives once more.

With approximately 215,000 cases of eggs held by the storage plants of Los Angeles on August 1 of last year, it seemed to many that there was no hope of disposing of such a surplus without serious loss to the owners. So grave a situation had seldom confronted the Poultry Producers' association, because, in common with many others, they were holding in storage a large number of eggs. Several get-together meetings were held, and as a result of these conferences, it was decided to try advertising the cheapness of eggs. Eggs were actually cheaper than they had been for many years, time of the year considered. Notwithstanding that the grower was hard pressed, there was no cry about saving the industry. Neither was any effort made to work up sympathy for the grower. Nothing but low prices was emphasized and how to use the eggs to the best advantage. The grower might just as well recognize, first as last, that the consumer is not much concerned with cost of production.

Those actively interested in this advertising campaign believed that the consumer would be interested in using eggs if the economy could be demonstrated. Every holder of storage eggs was urged to contribute five cents a case to establish an advertising fund. Not all of the holders of eggs would contribute. The Chicago offices of the meat packers would not allow their local representatives to assist this movement financially. In the end, however, between $9000 and $10,000 was secured, the largest single contribution being made by the Poultry Producers' association. The New York Produce News commends the advertising campaign in Los Angeles as being more skillfully executed than any like effort in this history of the egg business in the United States. So effective was the advertising that already in August, notwithstanding current receipts were heavy, withdrawals from storage amounted to 20,000 cases. At the present rate of consumption, all storage eggs will have been consumed within a few weeks.

This improved condition of affairs should insure a more optimistic sentiment when the storage season for 1923 arrives. As was mentioned at first, the grower is vitally interested in sentiment regarding the price to be paid for storage eggs. All the eggs produced in the spring cannot be consumed at that time. Hence, someone must come forward and store a portion for the reason that later on, when the hens stop laying so freely, fresh laid eggs will not supply normal consumption.
